This is the time of year where everyone gets all warm and fuzzy inside and cannot wait to see what their significant other has gotten them for Valentine's Day. Many people love this time of year because they get to show their love and affection towards the one that they love. I have three great suggestions as to what you can do to show just how much you are in love with your honey bunny.

Dinner for Two: People have to eat so why not take the love of your life to a nice fancy restaurant. Let him or her choose their favorite place to eat and take them there. This is sure to put a smile on their face. Who does not want to sit at a nice candlelit table special for just you two? Here are the pros and cons of this suggestion: Some of the pros are that you can show how much you love them by where you eat, what you eat, and how you have to dress to get into the place to eat. You can sit down and let them pick their favorite meal. The cons are that some places can be noisy and uncomfortable in the suit you bought especially for this date. If you want peace and quiet, I would not suggest this to you.

At home dinner: Many women all over the world want their husband to cook for them at least one time in their lifetime. To all the boyfriends, husbands, or maybe just guy friends, this is a great night for you to take on that task. As she walks through the door, surprise her with a beautiful table setting that is set up for you two, with candles everywhere, and rose pedals all over the table. That might be enough to keep her interest. Bring out her favorite homemade meal and actually look like you did it flawlessly. I am sure this dinner will win her heart over again.

Flowers: Every girl would be stupid not to love flowers, but from what I have seen, flowers may not be the best present every guy has given their special lady. Flowers, to me, always seem like the easy way out. Just because you know that your partner loves flowers, does not mean that you immediately go out and buy her twelve dozen roses. I, personally, do not even like roses. I mean a lot of guys get their girlfriends roses or some sort of flower, and a week later they die and that was it. How easy is it to go out and buy some flowers and have them make a pretty arrangement and sit them on the table?

Pretty easy to me. What I am trying to say is you can get flowers, but do not just get some and that be it. That is lame. You took the easy way out so do not expect a lot of affection from just those flowers that she does not even remember two weeks later.
